a) Promoting social innovation for change, collecting, generating and disclosing socially innovative proposals for offering alternatives to problems and social systems which need to be reconsidered.

i) The resources obtained by NOVACT in the 2016 financial year have been allocated to the implementation of its founding purposes.

4.- NOVA'S financial year covers the period from 1st January to 31st December.

2. Basis for presentation of its annual accounts.

1. True image:

The annual accounts have been drawn up based on NOVACT'S accounting records and are presented in accordance with current legislation and with the rules and principles established in the

ANNUAL REPORT FOR FINANCIAL YEAR 2017

Accounting Plan for Foundations and Associations subject to the legislation of the Regional Government of Catalonia, approved by Decree 259/2008 of 23rd December, of the Department of Justice of the Regional Government of Catalonia, with the aim of displaying the true image of the assets, the financial situation and the results of its operations, and the changes in net worth (shareholders' equity).

No accounting principle or valuation criterion with any significant effect on the annual accounts has ceased to be applied.

2. Comparison of information:

The annual accounts are presented for comparative purposes, accompanying each of the entries of the balance sheet, of the profit and loss account, of the statement of changes in net worth and of the report, as well as the figures for the 2017 financial year and those corresponding to the previous financial year, which were part of the annual accounts of the 2016 financial year approved by the General Meeting.

3. Grouping of headings:

No items are grouped in different headings.

4. Items included in different headings:

No items are included under different headings.

5. Changes in accounting criteria and error correction:

There have been no changes in the accounting criteria applied and no errors have been corrected.

3. Application of profit/loss.

Surpluses pending application in statutory activities
Total	-24.894,85	5.236,19

4. Recording and valuation rules.

The most important recording and valuation rules applied in drawing up these annual accounts were as follows:

1.- Intangible assets:

The different intangible assets are recognized as such to meet the definition of assets and the criteria for recording or accounting recognition contained in the Conceptual Framework of Accounting. In addition, they meet the criteria of identifiability, given that they are separable elements that arise from legal or contractual rights, regardless of whether such rights are transferable or separable.

Intangible assets are valued at their cost, whether this is the purchase price or the production cost, without prejudice to what is indicated in the specific rules on this type of property, plant and equipment.

Indirect taxes levied on intangible assets have only been included in the acquisition price or production cost when they were not directly recoverable from the Public Treasury.

Amortization has been established in a systematic and rational manner based on the useful life of the intangible assets and their residual value, taking into account the depreciation that has normally suffered from their operation, use and enjoyment, without prejudice to also consider technical obsolescence or commercial that could affect them. When it has proceeded to recognize value adjustments, depreciation has been adjusted for the following years of the impaired assets, taking into account the new book value.

2.- Tangible fixed assets:

Tangible fixed assets are valued at the acquisition price minus the accumulated depreciation and where applicable, deducting any estimated losses which could stem from comparing the net book value of each item with its recoverable amount.

At the close of the year, NOVA values the impairment in the value of the different assets, estimating the recoverable value of these assets, which is whichever is higher of their reasonable value and their value in use. If the recoverable value is under the net book value the proper value correction for value impairment will be made, charged to the profit and loss account. Any previously booked reversals of impairment losses, should the case arise, are recognised in the profit and loss account for the year in which the impairment is written off or reduced.

Any costs of renewal, extension or improvement representing an increase in capacity, productivity or any lengthening of the useful life of the goods are capitalised as a greater cost of the assets in question. The expenses for conservation and maintenance are charged to the profit and loss account for the financial year in which these arise.

The depreciation of items of tangible fixed assets is made on the cost value using the straight-line method, applying the following depreciation percentages:

- Other amenities 10%
- Furniture 5%
- Information processing equipment 20%

Any new items incorporated are depreciated from the time when these come into operation.

3.- Leases:

Leases are classified as financial whenever their conditions lead to their being considered as substantially transferring any risk and benefits inherent to the ownership of the asset covered by the contract to the lessee. Any other leases are classified as operating leases.

As of 31st December 2017 NOVA only has operating leases. Payments to third parties for operating leases are charged to the profit and loss account at the time when these are accrued on a straight-line basis during the lease period..

4.- Loans and receivables:

These are initially valued at their reasonable value which, if there is no evidence otherwise, will be the transaction price. Later on they will be valued at their depreciated price, accounting for the interest accruing in the profit and loss account by applying the effective interest rate method.

In spite of the foregoing, any credits for commercial operations with maturities up to one year which do not have a contractual interest rate, as well as other balances receivable whose amounts are expected to be received in the short term, are valued at face value, in both the initial valuation and the later assessment, when the effect of not updating the cash flows is not significant.

The following financial assets are included in this category:

- Accounts receivable from activity operations corresponding to debit balances from activities.
- Accounts receivable from other operations. This includes balances with other debtors, personnel, etc.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR FINANCIAL YEAR 2017

- Short and long-term deposits. These are valued at their face value, since the effect of not updating cash flows is not significant.

At the close of the year the required impairment value corrections are made if there is any objective evidence for this.

Impairment is considered to exist when there are reasonable doubts as to the recoverability in the amounts and maturities of sums. As a general rule, the impairment value correction is made in the books by a charge to the profit and loss account for the financial year in which the impairment was recognised. Any reversals of previously registered impairment losses, should these arise, are recognised in the profit and loss account in which the impairment is eliminated or reduced.

Activity debtors and other accounts receivable are subject to value correction, should the case arise, after having been individually analysed.

5. Corporate tax:

NOVACT opted for the special tax system for non-profit-making organisations and incentives for patronage approved by Act 49/2009, on 10th June 2014 by the presentation of the relevant tax register declaration. This system is consequently fully applicable in tax period 2017.

Insofar as the Association rules out the profit motive in its business, it enjoys exemption from Corporate Tax in respect of the income stemming from the activities covered by its founding purposes.

6. Value Added Tax (VAT) and other tax

Non-deductible input VAT forms part of the purchase price of current and non-current assets, as well as of services which are involved in the operations taxed. The rules on non-deductible input VAT are applicable to any other indirect tax paid in acquiring goods or services, which are not directly recoverable from the State Treasury.

Output VAT does not form part of income stemming from operations covered by this tax or from the net sum obtained in the sale or disposal by other channels in the case of retirement of the non-current asset. The rules on output VAT are applicable to any other indirect tax charged on operations performed by the Organisation and which are recoverable through the State Treasury.

6. Income and expenditure:

Income and expenditure are allocated in accordance with the accrual criterion, that is, when the real flow of goods and services that these represent takes place, regardless of the time when the monetary or financial flow stemming from this arises. More specifically, at the close of the financial year, the accrual of income from grants is scheduled in accordance with the expenses incurred in each project during the financial year.

Income is valued at the reasonable value of the consideration received or still to be received for the goods issued and the services rendered in the ordinary framework of its activity, after deducting discounts and tax.

Income from interest is recognised in accordance with its accrual, and does not significantly differ through applying the effective interest rate method.

7. Grants, donations and legacies.

Any non-repayable grants, donations and legacies are booked as a general rule as income directly assigned to net worth and recognised in the profit and loss account as income on a systematic and rational basis correlated with any expenses stemming from the grant, donation or legacy.

Any grants, donations or legacies which are repayable are booked as liabilities of the company until they become non-repayable. They are considered not to be repayable for this purpose when there is an individual agreement for assignment of the grant, donation or legacy to the company, when the conditions established for granting this are complied with and when there is no reasonable doubt about the reception of the grant, donation or legacy.

For purposes of allocation to the profit and loss account, the following types of grants, donations and legacies have been distinguished: when these are granted to ensure a minimum rate of return or to offset operating deficits, they are allocated as income for the year in which they have been granted, unless they refer to future years; when they have been granted to finance specific expenses, they are allocated as expenses in the same financial year in which the expenses have accrued; when they have been granted to purchase assets or cancel liabilities, they are allocated as income for the financial year to the extent to which the disposal has taken place or in proportion to the transfer to depreciation that was made; finally, when sums of money have been received with no assignment to any specific purposes, they have been allocated as income for the financial year in which they were recognised.
